TELEGRAM IS EXPLAINED

One Received by Foot Ball Player Was Intended for Wife of Lieutenant
Nichols.

That the telegram received by Quartermaster Nichols of the Navy eleven days before the game with the Army at New York last Saturday, and which seemingly told of the serious illness of his father was intended for the wife of Lieut. Nichols who is stationed at this yard was learned yesterday through friends of Mrs. Nichols. The belief is also expressed that the delivery to the navy player was due to a confusion of identities.

The telegram was sent to Mrs. Nichols to apprise her of the serious illness of her father in Baltimore, and that his condition was a matter of grave concern. It was addressed to Lieut. Nichols at Portsmouth. Mrs. Nichols was visiting Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Converse in New Haven, and the message was forwarded by Lieut. Nichols to New Haven. Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Converse had gone to New York. The message was forwarded again. Lieut. Nichols meantime also making inquiries to find her. The message was left at a hotel at which she was expected.

The text of the message was identical with that handed to Quartermaster Nichols and which he decided was not intended for him as the initials were wrong and his family were in Spartanburg, S. C. and not Baltimore. Mrs. Nichols got the message immediately after the game and left for Baltimore.

DEFENDS UNITED SHOE POLICY

President Winslow Testifies That No
Royalties Have Been Increased--
Total Tax Is Five Cents Per Pair of Shoes

Boston, Dec. 3.—To combat the charge that the United Shoe Machinery Company built up its business at the expense of the shoe manufacturers and the public generally, President Winslow today testified that from the time it was organized in 1899, no royalty has ever been increased and no payments raised.

On the other hand he said, the total royalty had been decreased three quarters of a cent, and the cost of production to the shoe manufacturers had been reduced seven and a half cents by improved machinery. To perfect this machinery, Mr. Winslow said, the company paid out of its own pocket $2,267,954 and the machinery was placed at the disposal of the shoe manufacturers without any expense to them.

The company turned out from seven to eight new kinds of machines a year, he said. All the parts were standardized and might be had at any one of 18 different agencies. To maintain these agencies and the corps of mechanics attached to them for setting up and making repairs to machinery cost last year $1,200,000 without expense to the shoe manufacturer.

To the amount of royalty derived by the company was a fraction over five cents on each pair of shoes, Mr. Winslow said.

Regarding the acquisition of companies after the organization of the United Shoe Machinery Company in 1899, Mr. Winslow testified that half a dozen of these were taken over as agencies to act as agencies for the United.

The Eppler Welt company was taken over to avoid litigation which was started by the Goodyear company before the latter entered the United Shoe Machinery Company, he said.

By the acquisition of the Boot and Shoe Sole Laying Company of Boston the United saved the shoe manufacturers one quarter of a cent royalties and there was an additional saving of half a cent by acquisition of the Gem Company.

The sole object for the acquisition of the various companies, Mr. Winslow said was a desire to meet the demand of an expanding market. An evidence tending to show that the United did not try to create a monopoly, Attorney Charles E. Choate, Jr., introduced a list of 438 inventions on the shoe machinery which the company declined to purchase and a list of 80 concerns engaged in manufacturing shoe machinery supplies which were advertised for sale and which the United declined to purchase.

Assistant Attorney General James P. Powell explained that the government did not contend that the United tried to effect a monopoly of the whole shoe machinery business, but only of that part which related to attaching the soles to the uppers and was known as the bottoming process.

Justice Brown said that there was a vast difference between a monopoly and a specialty.

LAST IN SERIES OF OPERA TALKS

Mr. Hubbard Speaks Interestingly on the Japanese Opera "Madame

The third and last in the series of opera talks given by Havurah R. Hubbard, public manager of the Boston Opera Company, and assisted by Floyd M. Baxter, pianist, was presented Wednesday evening in Association hall, the subject being "Madame Butterfly," which is a Japanese opera in two acts, three years elapsing between the acts. The synopsis of the delightful little story is as follows:

An American naval officer goes to Japan on a man-of-war, marries a little Japanese girl of fifteen, whom he calls his butterfly. He marries her according to the Japanese marriage laws and lives with her for a short while. She is ever loving, devoted and loyal, but he leaves her and goes back to America on the man-of-war.

Three years later he returns to Japan with his American wife and goes to see his Japanese child-wife. In the meantime she had given birth to a son, of whom she is very proud. She ever thought of the return of her husband and his joy upon the discovery of his own son, and remained true to him during his absence.

The little butterfly, after discovering the strange woman and realizing she was her husband's wife, she decides to cut her throat with a dagger, after the terrible surrender of the son to his father and the American woman, who promises to take him back to America and educate him as an American.

The story was very pathetic and was presented in the beautiful scenery of Japan, amidst the cherry blossoms and the splendor of that region.

Mr. Hubbard is a very remarkable impersonator with pleasing voice, fascinating gestures and charming personality which captivates his audience immediately.

Mr. Baxter rendered selections on the piano at intervals throughout the talk.

Miss Susan E. Borthwick rendered "One Fine Day" most beautifully and was heartily applauded.

The Girls' Club, through the generosity of a prominent Portsmouth man, secured the services of these artists and are considered very fortunate in obtaining them as Messrs. Baxter and Hubbard tour throughout the country, giving these talks on the popular operas of the present day and only by special arrangement could they be secured at all.

The Girls' Club have planned a series of rare treats to be given the public during the winter, as the first series have been most successful, shown by the large attendance. The Club feels well remunerated for their efforts to give the people of Portsmouth the opportunity of classical attractions.

It might be well to say here that the preliminary talk concerning opera in English for English speaking people which Mr. Hubbard strongly advocates was very well received. In every other country, operas are written in their own tongue but in America, it is lacking. Through the efforts of Mr. Hubbard and other prominent masters of the opera, this will no longer be so.

The following young ladies acted as ushers: Misses Heloise Whittier, Ruth Laughton, Maud Trefethen, Mrs. Almina Cogan, Mrs. John McPherson, Miss Eva Beaulieu was at the door, acting in the capacity of ticket taker, and Miss Frances Wiggins assisted.

CITY DUMP ALIVE WITH BIG RATS

Public Works Obligated to Put
It Under Lock and Key.

The board of public works has found it necessary to fence in and lock up the city dump on South street, for several years boys have started fire among the rubbish and the firemen and city workmen have been sent there many times to extinguish it. Rats by the hundreds gather there to feed on the swill and decayed fruit that has been dumped by people at night who went so far as to drop their dirt in the driveway, blocking the passage of the city wagons and compelling the drivers to shovel up this filth before they could reach the proper place for releasing their load.

PORTSMOUTH GETS CREDIT

Division of Corporation Tax;
Concord Gets Largest Amount.

The following interesting information was given out at the office of the state treasurer concerning the apportionment of corporation taxes to the towns. The total credits to the towns is $1,028,068.29, which with the state tax of $800,000 deducted, leaves a balance of $228,068.29 paid to the towns.

There are 150 towns, which will have a balance payable to them and $5 which will pay a balance to the state. Concord is to receive the largest amount, $55,539.43. The total credits for Concord amount to $107,275.43 comprising an insurance tax of $1818, a railroad tax of $16,617.50, savings bank tax of $55,353.86, literary fund of $2312.10, and a school fund of $563.33. Deducting the state tax of $51,736, it leaves $55,539.43 to the city's credit. The town to receive the smallest balance is Windham, which will receive seven cents.

Dover, Franklin, Laconia, Manchester, Portsmouth and Rochester are to receive credits. The cities which show a balance due the state include Berlin, Keene, Nashua and Somersworth.

In comparison with Concord it may be of interest to note that Manchester's credits total $163,228.57. With the state tax of $129,920 deducted, the amount which this city will receive totals $33,308.57.

With the exception of Concord and Dover all the cities in the state will receive larger apportionments than last year, the total apportionment being $13,977.48 larger than for the year 1912.

MEXICO CITY OBJECTIVE POINT

General Villa Declares Mexico City
Will Be Surrendered to Rebels
At Christmas--Federal Threaten Mutiny

Juarez, Mex. Dec 3.—A new era began in northern Mexico today. It marked the peaceful occupation by the rebels of the territory abandoned by Huerta's federal troops.

With 2,000 rebels General Francisco Villa on route from Juarez to the eye of Chihuahua, passed through Ahumada, 85 miles south of the border and camped at Montezuma, 30 miles further south. Five thousand more rebels will join him on the way and with a combined force of 7000 men he will enter the state capital, there to establish what will be the temporary military headquarters of the constitutional party.

The departure of the rebel forces from Juarez with their equipment was made on four trains, a garrison of 1,700 soldiers having been left behind to guard the border town. As far as Ahumada, Villa has restored the telegraph. The railroad runs to Montezuma, where it is interrupted by burned bridges. It is to be reconstructed within a few days.

Whether General Carranza head of the revolution, also will go to Chihuahua seemed to be in doubt, although Villa said he expected Carranza's forces to cross from Sonora to concentrate the men for operations further south.

When the rebels enter Chihuahua, with the tattered Mexican flags which they are carrying as symbol of their demands for a restoration of constitutional government, they will have Zacaitecas as the nearest federal stronghold on the south. It is towards that city that Villa insists he will march.

HEARINGS ON WAGE QUESTION

Secretary of the Navy Daniels
Will Listen to Portsmouth
Yard Representative on Dec. 9.

Mr. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has decided to hold a hearing in the Navy Department on the question of wages of laborers and mechanics in navy yards for the calendar year, 1914.

Each grade at a yard will be allowed one representative, and it is desired that as many trades as possible agree on the same person to represent them at the hearing. Written statements will receive the same consideration as oral, so that the appearance of representatives in person is not absolutely necessary. These are the dates set for the hearing:

Portsmouth, N. H., December 9;
Boston, Mass., December 16;
New York, December 16; Philadelphia, December 20; Washington, December 18;
Norfolk, Va., December 19; Charleston, S. C., December 22, and naval stations, Newport, R. I., December 10; Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., December 11.

SUE SUGAR TRUST FOR MILLIONS

58 New Suits Brings Total to 130 in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Dec. 3.—With the filing in the federal court here today of 58 suits against the American Sugar Refining Co., making $33,879,387 damages under the Sherman law, the total number of cases brought here against the big sugar corporations was increased to 130, making damages aggregating more than $100,000,000.

The actions brought today are almost identical with the first suits filed two weeks ago by Wogan Bros. Ltd., charging the American Company with being a monopoly and with having manipulated the sugar market to the detriment of the complainants, all of whom are Louisiana sugar planters, manufacturers or dealers.

According to one of the lawyers interested in the litigation, the sudden rush to file suits against the American company was due to the fact that the statute of limitations was expected to expire today.

POEHLER TELLS HOW TO BOWL

Candlepin Crack Gives Rules for Improvement at Game.

Paul P. Poehler rated as king of the candlepin bowlers, was interviewed by a newspaper man the other day concerning the popular indoor sport, and gave the scribbler several tips which will prove of advantage to all who indulge in this game. No one is more qualified to give advice to men who follow the pin-splitting game for amusement and as there are many bowlers in this city, Poehler's rules will be of interest to them.

His "do's" and "don'ts" follow. To begin with a bowler should learn to keep back of the foul line, it should acquire control of his footwork so that in any match it will not be difficult for him to keep behind the line. Lack of good footwork and ability to keep behind the foul line is the fault of very many bowlers.

I take two steps and a slide in approaching the foul line. I am a right handed bowler, I have my left foot forward when I deliver the ball, or quite frequently I have both close together.

Footwork is quite important, if you are you are going to make a foul by going over the line, it is best to not attempt to stop. Keep on your feet and keep going, and in this way accidents to hands and wrists may be avoided. Bowlers sometimes severely injure their wrists badly by falling and attempting to save themselves. This accident may happen even if you are careful. You may step on a wet place and stick as you attempt your slide.

Do Not Change Position

Above all things do not change the place from which you bowl behind the line—regardless of how the pins lay. If there is a single pin left standing on the right hand corner, the No. 10 pin, bowl at it from the same place as you do on your first ball. Changing position to shoot at this pin is frequently done by bowlers, but it is not the best practice. I never change positions for my pins. I put a little more force into my ball in shooting at the No. 10 when it is left up alone.

And it is very important to use the same distance behind the line each time, just as an athlete in training for the broad or high jump has his take-off figured to a nicety and sticks to it. In bowling it is sometimes called run, instead of takeoff, but it is just as essential to perfect it, as it is for the jumper to do so.

It does not require a swift ball to be a good bowler. A medium ball in relation to your control is the thing. For the first ball, medium speed is desirable. For the second ball more speed is used. When pins are left up for the third ball, the roller should work carefully and play safe rather than hazardous shots.

The manner of holding the ball should be natural. Do not place the ball in the hand. Pick it up naturally off the return run and do not attempt any style of holding it, as you would in handling a baseball.

Another thing in bowling, bowlers should be brotherly and friendly at all times. Whether your score is low or high, the feeling should be the same.

This is the only way to make a good friendly game. In match playing, slight matches, the discipline of the game should be at all times be remembered. Each side has favorites who want their favorites to win. There is much rooting in attempts to outdo either man.

The principals should not notice the rooting, but stick to their game and keep their mind wholly on their rooting. Do not allow yourself to talk to anyone during the match. Of course you may greet anyone who greets you but so far as entering into any conversation—about it strictly. Be neutral till the match is over. And be sure to shake hands before and after the match with your opponent.

PAVED STREETS IN 2000 B. C.

Babylon and Other Ancient Nations Took An Active Interest in Road Building.

When or where the first road was built is not known. Herodotus speaks of a great Egyptian road on which King Cheops employed 100,000 men for 10 years. According to the historian, this road was built of massive stone blocks ten feet deep, and lined on both sides with temples, mansions, porticoes and statues. The streets of Babylon are said to have been paved as early as 2000 B. C., and several well watered roads radiated to neighboring cities. Carthage, before its fall was the center of a highly developed road system. The ancient Persians had a wonderful system of national roads connecting all their important parts of their empire.

Roads were also built by the ancients at a very early date. The first paved road in the world was built by the Romans at a very early date. The first paved road in the world was built by the Romans at a very early date.

The first definite and fully authentic information concerning the systematic construction and maintenance of permanent roads came to us from the Romans. It is generally understood that the Romans learned the art of road building from the Carthaginians. However, the construction of their great road was as perfect as that of any of their later ones.

The first of the great Roman roads was from Rome to Capua a distance of 142 Italian miles, and was begun by Appian Claudius about 312 B. C. It was known as the Appian Way, or Queen of Roads. This road was later extended to Brundisium, a total of 300 miles, and was probably completed by Julius Caesar. About 320 B. C. the Plautia Way was built. It crossed the Tiber river on a stone bridge which had a central span of 100 feet with a rise of 100 feet. When Rome reached the height of her glory under the reign of Augustus, no less than 29 great military roads radiated from the city. These roads extended to every part of the vast empire and are estimated to have had a total length of 50,000 miles.

The Roman construction was of general extremely massive. The Appian Way is said to have been in good repair 800 years after it was built. On a carefully prepared sub-grade were placed four successive courses of large stones, the bottom or foundation course the radius or second course and the pavement or wearing surface. The top and bottom courses consisted of general of large flat stones, while the two intervening courses were built of smaller stones or other suitable material laid in lime mortar.

With the fall of the Roman Empire the roads were neglected and gradually fell into decay, so that today but little more than a trace remains of these splendid achievements of the first century B. C.

WHERE THE WORLD MOVES

According to Colonel Joseph C. Acklen, the Tennessee man who out of love for birds and ambule does with

Three Fingered Brown, Who Will Manage Cincinnati Team

Chicago, Dec. 3. Joe Phelan, former leader of the Chicago Redlegs, is authority for the statement that Three Fingered Brown will be selected to manage the Windy City team next year and that President Herrmann will make the announcement in New York during the National League meeting. It is stated that Johnny Evers has called to C. Webb Murphy, who is in Europe, asking permission to take Phelan under his wing, and the latter on account of business ventures hopes it will be arranged after that fashion.

out remuneration a lot of work for the United States as the chief game warden, women are really and rapidly abandoning the ancient and therefore barbaric habit of denouncing themselves with feathers and bits of fur. This change in feminine fashions has been the most hopeful sign he has seen in his travels all over the country, and, of course, it does mean a good deal as to the preservation of wild life, for the hunting that is done by fashion and not by the demands is even more ruthless in its slaughter, than that which gratifies man's lingering desire to "kill something" or the far from reprehensible yearning we all have for something good.

Fashion is willing to pay any price for what it wants, and when it selects this feather or that fur as the thing to wear, the bird carrying the one of the beast carrying the other, unless domesticated, like the ostrich and the sheep is doomed to speedy extermination unless vigorous measures are taken for its protection. And even then it is by no means safe, owing to the above mentioned indifference to expense. Hence the reasonableness of the gentle colonel's rejoicing that the many recent appeals to the ladies to cease imitating the decorative custom of their remotest ancestors in the wilderness have set them to seeking less gruesome additions to their charms which, as a matter of fact, are dangerously painful without any additions at all.

And that they are thus rising in the evolutionary scale can be seen without travelling around as much as does Colonel Acklen. No better proof of it is needed than was to be obtained by a glance over the orchestra stalls at the opera Monday evening. Penelope heads crowned with tall and complicated arrangements of feathers were, indeed, to be observed there, and they shut off all view of the stage for the unfortunate who sat behind them. But much illustrations of absurdity, interesting to the anthropologist as reminders of T. H. Huxley and Darwin, were conspicuous because they were very few in number and evidently destined soon to disappear with the advancement of civilization and the spread of good taste.

The colonel is right. The world does move. In time the women will even stop sprinkling themselves with shiny bits of stone, and won't that be kind!

DISTRICT COURT

In district court on Wednesday afternoon, Joseph Howard and Helen Rowe, both from Dover, were arraigned charged with statutory offense. They had been living at a house on State street under the name of Mr. and Mrs. Howard and Mrs. Rowe had two of her children with her, a girl of thirteen and a boy of two. Her husband was recently killed on the railroad and the administrator of his estate located her in this city. Howard has a wife in Maine.

Howard was held for the April term of court in $500 and Miss Rowe was fined $25 and costs, which was paid and she returned with her children to Dover.

The Herald prints the news first handed.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at Once When Backache or Bladder Bothers—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the wastes and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headache, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if there is a cloudy, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attendance by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, for a few days and your kidneys will then get fine. This famous salt is made from the rocks of grapes, and lemon juice combined with citric acid has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder or disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

Good word for the spider. Men these little weather prophet spiders that build their nests on the grass are of great value. It is claimed that if many of such webs are seen in the morning on the lawn, it will not rain, as these spiders know enough not to build them when it is about to rain. These same spiders capture hundreds of flies, and they are especially valuable in catching mosquitoes. The webs are harmless, as are the spiders, and should never be destroyed.

Folding Headgear. "These collapsible opera hats are a great convenience." "So?" "Yes, you have no idea how much room they save in a flat."—Louisville Courier Journal.

RELEASED AFTER BEING HELD A YEAR ON A CAPIAS

Judge Oliver E. Branch had a variety of cases before him in Superior Court on Wednesday. In the forenoon the case of Chester Mann, guard of Mardella J. Mann, of Derry, against Loren A. Taintor of Athol, Mass., an action to recover $5000 was heard.

William H. Richards of Newmarket was arraigned charged with having 48 short lobsters in his possession. The complaint was made by Game Warden C. B. Hoyt and Richards entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued.

John Elder, a former Commissioner, Sergeant, at Port Constitution, who has been in jail for nearly a year on a capias writ, on an action to recover money obtained under false pretense, was released by Judge Branch after arguments by his counsel, S. W. Emery and he was allowed to go on his own recognizance.

Today will be the last session here, the court going to Derry on Monday, returning here next Thursday for one day.

ADVICE

All who know peace of mind and troubled rest and contentment:

All who would enjoy not their neighbors any stroke or still of fortune.

All who would be devoted husbands and fathers, and grow not to be strangers in the home.

All who would do a full day's work without resentment.

All who would so live that they can see the rain without complaining; can view the growing dusk of evening without dissatisfaction or regret.

All who would go to bed at night serenely pleased with the day and what it has brought forth, calm in the knowledge and belief that they have done their best; who would look back and see with satisfaction what they have done well, rather than the homeless gloom of what they might have done.

All who would continue to be pleased with themselves; to grow in self appraisal and self approval; to be proud of their skill and wisdom and not discover their lack of them.

All who would not give up the illusion that they are wonders for the grewsome reality that they are DUBS.

Should avoid the game of golf.—Detroit Free Press.

WOMEN INVADE CAPITAL TO URGE SUFFRAGE

Washington, Dec. 3.—The suffrage convention was suspended for a few hours today while delegates moved on the Capitol to urge a favorable report by the House Rules Committee on a resolution to create a standing committee on woman suffrage in the House.

Women suffragists have long been pressing for a hearing on the resolution. They sought it persistently during the extra session and were promised that attention would be given to the measure early in the regular session. Women of the antisufrage movement also have been granted a hearing in opposition to the resolution and they will appear later.

The scene resembled a charge on a battlefield when more than 1000 suffrage delegates closed in on the Capitol. The women advanced in regimental formation in quick-step order and crowded the hearing room long before the committee arrived.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association had charge of presenting arguments for a committee. She told the members it was not the purpose of the speakers to convert the Congressmen to suffrage, but to convince them that the suffrage movement was entitled to a similar one in the Senate.

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper declared the suffrage movement had grown to national proportions and that justice required that the subject should come under the jurisdiction of the National Congress.

Helen Gardner, Miss Jane Addams, Miss Desha Breckenridge, Mrs. Mary Beard and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt also pleaded for the committee. Representative Baker of California spoke for his resolution, which would provide for a suffrage committee of 13 members.

A resolution by Representative Kelly, Progressive, of Pennsylvania, was adopted, providing that the final vote of the rules committee on the women's proposal should be taken in public.

WANTS CORRECT AMERICAN HISTORY.

In an address to the heads of several military colleges and schools of the country the Secretary of War said yesterday that he hoped they would see to it that the truth concerning American history was taught in their schools. He thought that there was much that was untrue and misleading in the fanciful school histories of today, while the disagreeable things which have happened in the United States, particularly in a military way, are glossed over. Secretary Garrison said that the truth should be set forth in order that the youth of the land should have some conception of true conditions and some adequate realization of the necessity of preparation. If youth were properly taught, they would spread the knowledge and the country would be prepared for some sound and definite military policy.

Mr. Garrison said he certainly got wrong impressions from his school history, which seemed intent on teaching that an American "can lick ten men of any other nationality." But when he grew up and studied his history more closely with reference to military matters, especially when he came to the War Department, he discovered how wrong the school histories are. Mr. Garrison found a responsible audience, and at the end of the meeting he gave the War Department most outline some course of study which would remedy the defects mentioned. The meeting which Mr. Garrison addressed was the first annual gathering of a conference of the Association of the Military Colleges and Schools of the United States.

THIMBLES FOR BACHELORS

Most Men Why Buy Them Have the Nicest Tapering Fingers Imaginable, Says an Observant Salesgirl.

"One phrase of the notions department business that would strike a usual observer as peculiar is the number of men who buy thimbles," said the girl behind the counter. "The first time I sold a thimble to a man I was almost convulsed with curiosity, and he was in the same condition with bashfulness. He tried to make me think at first that he was buying the thimble for his sister, but he worried so over the size that I suspected there was something back of his anxiety. At last I said:

"Can't you give me some idea of the size of your sister's finger? Is it as large as mine?" and I held up the middle finger of my right hand for inspection.

"O, yes," said he, "is larger than that—much larger. It is almost as large as mine."

"And then I laughed, and presently he laughed and told me all about it."

"The fact is," he said, "I have no sister. I'm roughing it in bachelor quarters, and I have to do so much mending and sewing on buttons and the like that I find a thimble indispensable. I suppose my ability in that line is nothing to be ashamed of, but somehow I rather shrink from letting on that I was buying a thimble for myself. I thought it would make me seem effeminate."

"But that happened two or three years ago," the girl added. "Nowadays they march right up and buy needles and thread and darning cotton and even hand sewing machines without a tremor, just as women buy their own rifles and rowboats and other sporting goods."

"Most of the men who buy thimbles have the nicest tapering fingers imaginable. I suppose most of them work in offices or stores and don't do anything to soil their hands. They are very particular about the fit of their thimbles. They always want them as tight as beeswax. A woman likes a thimble loose enough to permit of circulation, but the men say they can't do anything with the thimble slipping off all the time."

"Men buy good thimbles, too, much better than the average woman buys for gold ones."—New York Times.

MORE NAVY RECRUITS FROM EAST.

The middle eastern states, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia contributed more recruits to the navy in the past five months than any other section of the country. The enlistments from that section numbered 11,884, or 28 per cent of the total. The central states, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and West Virginia, came next with 15,211, or 21 per cent, and in order came the far western states, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, Washington, Oregon and California with 14,719 or 10 per cent, the middle western states, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas with 7,721 or 10 per cent, and finally the New England district with 609 enlistments or 1.2 per cent.

ANOTHER DREAM SHATTERED BY INVESTIGATION

Washington, Dec. 3.—The belief of many people that bouillon cubes are concentrated meat essence and of high nutritive value, has been shattered by a recently issued bulletin of the Department of Agriculture which says that while they are valuable stimulants or flavoring agents they have little or no real food value and are relatively expensive in comparison with home-made broths and soups. This bulletin (No. 27) compares the contents and food value of bouillon cubes with meat extracts and home-made preparations of meat.

The ordinary commercial bouillon cubes, according to this bulletin, consist of from 1-2 to 3-4 table salt. As they range in price from 10 to 20 cents an ounce, purchasers of these cubes are buying salt at a high price. The cubes do contain a small amount of protein (muscle building material) in addition to their stimulating properties, and the makers of most of the cubes make no advertised claim that they are concentrated beef broth or essence. However, many housewives believe that they are and that they possess high nutritive value, especially for invalids. This is not the case. The fact that the cubes sell for from 1 to 2 cents each, and each cube makes a cup of broth, misleads the housewife into believing that she is securing meat extract cheaply when really she is buying it in an expensive form.

According to analyses of these cubes, besides the common salt which constitutes from 49 to 72 per cent of the total weight, the amount of meat extract ranges from 8 per cent in the poorest brands to but 28 per cent in the very best. The third important ingredient is plant or vegetable extract which constitutes from 3 to 30 per cent. This plant extract is useful because of its flavoring properties but has slight, if any, nutritive value.

The Department's meat chemist has thoroughly analyzed semi-solid meat extracts, fluid meat extracts, and commercial meat juice, which are offered on the market to the American public, in addition to the bouillon cubes. He has also conducted experiments in making home-made beef broth and meat and vegetable soup. A comparison of the relative costs of commercial and home-made meat preparations has resulted in the following table:

Substance	Ounces of meat extract obtained for 10 cents
Best grade bouillon cubes	1-8
Cheapest grade bouillon cubes	1-12
Best grade semi-solid meat extract	1-12
Cheapest grade semi-solid meat extract	1-1
Best grade fluid meat extract	1-3
Cheapest grade fluid meat extract	1-5
Commercial meat juice	1-10
Home-made beef broth	1-5
Home-made meat & vegetable soup	1-2

Both the bouillon cubes and the meat extracts are stimulants and flavoring agents, but have only a slight food value and are more expensive than home-made soups. While an actual cup of bouillon prepared from a cube costs only one or two cents and the same sized cup of home-made meat broth costs approximately 4-1-3 cents, the former is largely salt and water without the high food value that the latter might have particularly for children and invalids. The ingredients of each are given here:

Cup of Bouillon Made from a Commercial Bouillon Cube.
Water	97.78 per cent
Salt	1.48 per cent
Plant extract	1.04 per cent
Meat extract	.60 per cent
Fat	A trace

Cup of Home-Made Broth
Water	96.42 per cent
Fat	1.72 per cent
Meat and meat extractives	1.21 p. c.
Salt	1.07 per cent
Undetermined	.57 per cent

Although the cost of making the best broth, using expensive meat, is about 4-1-3 cents per cup, the broth contains all the fat of the meat which is a valuable food and which is previously eliminated from ordinary commercial meat extracts. Also, the meat after the soup is made is available for the preparation of hash. The cost could be greatly reduced if the meats are purchased at lower priced markets or if less expensive cuts are used and the home-made broth would still have much greater food value than the bouillon.

A Recipe for Meat and Vegetable Soup.

The bulletin recommends a wholesome meat and vegetable soup which will furnish enough for a family of five, at a cost of approximately 10 cents. This may be made according to the following recipe:

One soup bone, weighing about 24 ounces (1-3 meat) 10 cents. After being washed it should be placed in a large kettle with three pints of cold water and boiled for three hours when the bone and meat should be removed.

1-4 of a small head of cabbage, one onion, one carrot, one large potato, two small parsnips, a little flour seasoning, 5 cents.

Chop these vegetables and add to the soup. Boil the mixture for one hour, thicken slightly with a little flour and season with salt and pepper.

The home-made soup made according to the above recipe contains, in addition to meat extractives, gelatin from the bone, some of the food elements in the vegetables, and a large proportion of the fat and meat of the bone.

While the purchaser of semi-solid meat extracts obtains two to three times the amount of meat extract that he does by spending the same money for bouillon cubes, these extracts also are not concentrated beef according to the analyses made by the Department's chemist. They contain from 45 to 65 per cent meat extract, 15 to 25 per cent water, 5 to 20 per cent fat and 10 to 20 of ash other than salt. The cost of meat extracts at retail is 45 cents for 2 ounces or more.

Fluid extracts of meat are even more expensive than the semi-solid meat extracts, consisting of at least one-half water but selling at about the same price, volume for volume, as the semi-solid extract which contains more than 25 per cent of water.

Commercial meat juice preparations cost from 50 to 75 cents for 2 ounces of liquid and are frequently merely dilute solutions of the semi-solid meat extracts. When the amount of food actually present in them is considered they are expensive articles of diet. In making them the protein (muscle-building material) which is present in meat and is present in freshly made meat juice is entirely removed by the manufacturer in order to make a product which may be kept a long time without spoiling. Therefore, the most valuable food elements of the meat juice usually do not reach the consumer in these commercial products.

The bulletin contains cuts and tables illustrating the relative contents and food values of bouillon cubes, meat extracts, and home-made preparations, and may be had on application to the Division of Publication, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Itching piles prove painful and probably won't remove them. Doan's Ointment is recommended for itching, bleeding or protruding piles. 50 cents.

ACCIDENT DELAYS JUPITER TRIALS

A hose bolt, dropped into the main turbine of the big electric naval collier Jupiter as she was tuning up for her official trial, so damaged the engine as to make it prudent to replace the many broken or bent blades before running off the trial. The Navy Department has been advised that this work will be done at the Mare Island navy yard very soon, when another effort will be made to test the ship. The Jupiter had already far exceeded the speed requirement on preliminary trial runs.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR, FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Beautify Your Hair! Make It Soft, Fluffy and Luxuriant—Try the Moist Cloth

Try as you will, after a single application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you see new hair, fine and down at first, but really new hair growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy, and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable softness, lustre and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES

New Hampshire College, Durham, Dec. 3.—R. H. Watson, of Nashua, alumni trustee, has presented the college with a purchased Guernsey bull calf. The calf is a direct descendant of some of the earliest importations of that variety to this country.

The farm department is preparing for this bull and other new ones, and will build four pen pens with yards and a hay storage just south of the college barn. This will give each bull plenty of room for exercise, as much by the use of a trolley, and at the same time will permit each much more liberty of action.

Besides the bull given by Mr. Watson the college has purchased in New York, R. L. two purchased Guernsey heifers and two purchased Jersey heifers.

The old creamery building is being remodelled and will be devoted to the new poultry department now being conducted by R. V. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell is to have one room devoted to incubators and a poultry laboratory where poultry dressing and other work will be taught.

The new rapidly increasing flock of fine birds is being housed in dwellings built by the students under Mr. Mitchell's direction. After there will be a poultry day here when there will be a display of poultry and poultry products and there will be a program of addresses. A large attendance of the poultry raisers of the state is expected.

Dr. Samuel S. Drury, rector of St. Paul's School at Concord, addressed the students at chapel here today. Dr. Drury took as his subject "The Preparation for Christmas by making room for God."

There were present at the chapel exercises E. E. Ingalls, of Ossipee and H. M. Thayer, of Lacuna, members of a committee of the state grange, who were detailed by their organization to make an inspection of the college.

The installation of officers will take place the first Wednesday in January at which time the Post Historian and appointive officers will be announced.

STRONG FEATURES IN NEXT SUNDAY'S HERALD.

"No man really knows when he has come the closest to meeting his fate" says Mr. Hudson Maxim, known throughout the world as an inventor of high explosives. In an interesting article Mr. Maxim tells in his inimitable style of the various close calls he has had and of how seconds have been all that separated him from death many times.

Two Yankee boys, R. H. Upson and R. A. D. Preston by far the youngest accountants who ever won an international race, tell in an article replete with interest their own stories of the race which won for them the Coupe International.

Who was Rene Gaultier? Who and where are his heirs? At the present moment the Chamberlain of the City of New York has in his possession two bags of gold, containing $5,000, which will be turned over to the rightful heirs of the confederate war spy, who, when arrested seemed near, killed himself in New York. A search extending for a period of nearly fifty years has failed to reveal his identity or that of his heirs-at-law. An interesting story that grips you, tells what little is known of this romantic figure in the nation's history.

Portsmouth, N. H., Thursday, December 4, 1913.

Is Politeness a Lost Art?

One cannot affirm without fear of contradiction that there has been any laxity in the standard of morals of recent years, for in these days of advanced opinion there are not wanting men and women who will champion the most absolute open discussion of matters that one time were not matters for polite conversation. An age of pitiless realism is on us and until a generation or two have passed the world cannot tell whether the alleged gains to society will offset the ideals that are endangered by unredeemed frankness, remarks the Lowell Sun.

Whatever one may say of public morals, however, there is no doubt that there has been a steady decline in manners. Politeness is no longer considered by many the mark of the gentleman or lady and attention to the nicer points of etiquette is scarcely ever in evidence. To be polite now is to be unfashionable, especially for young ladies. We have still a few young men who will describe the figure eight with their hat when they meet a fair lady, or stand bareheaded while they speak to her, but these lingering remnants of good manners are due to exaggerated affectation rather than to innate good breeding. The girl who now wants to be considered fashionable will strive to attract as much attention as possible. If she walks through the streets modestly she is certain to be considered ordinary; if she does some deliberate posing in public, or shouts across the street to a friend, or looks around in a theatre to wave at a chum three rows back, she is almost sure to be set down as belonging to the charmed circle of an ultra-select school, or something quite as wonderful. Either the old people have very bad memories or the standard of manners has deteriorated sadly.

At dances and parties now it is quite the thing to see the young man who has gone "stag." He is absolutely selfish in his enjoyment. He may show a slight interest in two or three of the more showy girls, but he is certain to abstain from dancing if he cannot get the partner he wishes. It does not matter to him that six or seven girls who are not well acquainted with those present sit out several dances in succession. Gallantry is unknown to him. He stands at the door smoking cigarettes, looking bored while he waits for the number in which, with some wonderfully gowned nonentity, he may display his terpsichorean perfections in the intricacies of the tango.

Until there is a revival in the external marks of good breeding we cannot hope for a general use of good English or a decline in rudeness. Clothes will not be sufficient to designate the socially superior for the cook may, if she has saved her money, wear as fine a hat as her mistress, and wear it with as fine an air into the bargain. To a discriminating mind and keen eye there are hundreds of little marks which set the refined and cultivated in a class apart, and not all of these belong to the favored few to whom the fates have been kind. Wherever men and women are thrown together, gentlemen and ladies are distinguished by their manner and voice more distinctly than if they wore the velvets and powdered wigs of an age when to be well-mannered was as important as to be well educated.

The Republican Nominee for Mayor.

Harry B. Yeaton, the republican nominee for mayor, is a son of Portsmouth, has been in business here ever since he attained his majority, and will do honor to the city as its chief executive. He is well known by every resident and deserves the support of every member of his party and all good citizens who desire a fair and impartial administration of city affairs. He will give the tax payers a good business administration, and our citizens should see that his election is made certain. The men on the ticket with Mr. Yeaton are all well known and deserve the hearty support of the party. Make up your mind now to go to the polls on Tuesday next and vote the ticket headed by Harry B. Yeaton.

Boston's latest fire horror should cause the authorities of that city to cause more stringent laws to be enacted as to the accommodations afforded by the cheap lodging houses throughout the city. The loss of twenty-eight lives cannot be overlooked too lightly.

There appears to be a big rush to join the "Boost Portsmouth Club," which was instituted by this paper years ago, and kept alive every day. It is good to see the increase in membership. Now, all together, shout for Portsmouth.

That horrible loss of life in Boston is due to the incompetency of Boston's municipal system which is politically rotten. There are hundreds of even worse fire traps.

Portsmouth has the best managed and largest number of stores of any city north of Boston. You can get anything here that you can get anywhere. Do your Christmas shopping now.

It looks like a good clean campaign. Let all hands resolve to keep it so.

Get aboard the band wagon and put away your hammers.

Indiana Doctor Accused Of Murdering a Woman

The trial of Dr. William B. Craig, dean of the Indiana Veterinary college, on the charge of murdering Dr. Helen Kniebe two years ago is now under way. Ephraim Inman, chief counsel for the prosecution, put an end to the report that the state would introduce several clairvoyants as witnesses. It has been said that the detectives who brought about Dr. Craig's indictment received their tip through clairvoyants at Indianapolis, but Inman said to such evidence is to be introduced. The first witnesses to be introduced by the state were prominent Indianapolis physicians, who testified regarding the death of Dr. Kniebe and the exact nature of the wounds. Inman, who is employed by the Federated Woman's Club of Indiana, made the opening statement for the prosecution. The trial has caused a distinct sensation in the middle west owing to the prominence of the central figures.

TYROLEAN MUSHROOMS.

Big as Kittens—Perils of Collecting. (Matrei (Tyrol) Letter in the Boston Transcript.)

We Europeans think of America as a country given somewhat to exaggeration, when it comes to the production of trees, fruits and other vegetable growths. The little Austrian Tyrol is sometimes given to exaggeration in this direction too.

In front of our house, when hung over a blue depth of valley, and along the mountain side like a barnacle to a rock, a space was dug out so that one could walk for as much as three yards on the level. Once leave this space and one either climbed upward balanced on the slant, or plunged downward.

Around the house and bordering the road that led up the mountain, were Italian chestnut trees so large that it took from three to five of us to span the trunks of most of them. Under one of these one evening I saw crouching what I took to be a small, dark gray kitten. Stooping, I found that it was not a kitten, but a mushroom.

Our good peasant neighbor, hurrying toward me, begged that I would not disturb it, saying that she depended on this every year. After a few days of rain, what had seemed a kitten now looked a stately cat, and when I reached the weight of six pounds it was gathered and eaten.

It seems that this solid growth of gray velvet fleshy leaves appears every year on the roots of these big chestnut trees. The next day I promptly scaled the mountain and hunted round every big chestnut tree I came to. In vain. I got finally so high up on a steep, grassy slope that in order to return I had to resort to a method which we had commonly adopted as the safest way of descent.

Crouching down I slid rapidly down the grassy coast as though it had been ice and ended on my head in a nice soft swamp.

Am I not up with disheveled hair and a very wet shoulder, I saw two ladies hurrying toward me. The one in immaculate white, stately with shining white hair and delicate features, might have been the Snow Queen come down the mountain to my rescue. Her companion, a woman of about fifty, with highly aristocratic features, wore a mannish suit of black, diamond sandals on her bare feet and had a big cigar in her mouth. Finding that I was unhurt, they said they had just their way and inquired the shortest route to the nearby town of Brice. Having seen from the point whence I had so rapidly descended that a fierce storm was close upon us, I urged them to take shelter with me in my house, and we bandaged, rolled, lathered and slid down the mountain, gaining the shelter just as the flooding rain burst upon us. After a pleasant chat, during which they told me where the best mushroom grounds were, they resumed their way, leaving girls which read, "Princess So-and-So," and "Countess So-and-So," at Vienna. So this was all I brought home on my first mushroom expedition.

The rainy season improved matters and next time I went I bagged a mushroom weighing 5 1/2 pounds. I found it no joke getting it and myself safely down the mountain. It had to be chopped fine and boiled a long time, changing the water. But finally with plenty of butter and onion we had a delicious stew, and as every bit of the 5 1/2 pounds was edible it lasted us many days and reduced the butcher's bill surprisingly being sold as meat.

Later in the season after more rain I went on another mushroom hunt. This time I found six small gray mushrooms "kittens" nesting among the great roots and covering them carefully from the gaze of greedy eyes I left them to grow.

After three days of rain the sun burst out in a reve of color. The orange gold and back of the wooden houses glowed against the purple and blues and the brooks tumbled and laughed at every turn. I went up the mountain reckoning, "Six mushrooms weighing from six to—well, I will leave one to grow till it weighs 16 pounds. No more butchers' bills for this month!"

Half-way up the mountain I met four firms clad in brown with ropes round their waists and bare feet. Even firmer had on either arm a huge flat basket piled up with these strange magnificent specimens of gray velvet growths.

I am afraid you think that because the size of these mushrooms as grown so rapidly in this tale that the tale can go on expanding like those after rain. Unfortunately it can't because, when I reached, my trees there was not a mushroom left.

SURPRISES AT MASQUERADE

Jolly Young Hayseeds of Rye Hold Successful Dancing Party.

The masquerade ball given on Wednesday evening at Rye town hall by the Jolly Young Hayseeds served to attract nearly one hundred lovers of terpsichore, including many from out of town. Owing to the character of the disguise worn it was utterly impossible to make out the various characters represented. The first attraction of the evening was the grand march led by T. Herbert Perkins and Miss Jennie Drake, made up to represent a "Butcher" and "Christmas" respectively. All the other masked couples fell in line and a promenade of the hall followed.

After participating in five dances the masked couples formed a circle around the hall and upon orders from Mr. Philbrick, the violinist, the masks were removed and many appeared bewildered and chagrined upon learning the identity of their partners and others making up the large ring around the hall.

Throughout the rest of the evening round and square dances were enjoyed by all present. Norman Parsons acted in the capacity of floor director.

At 10:30 intermission was announced and all adjourned to the banquet hall where refreshments were served consisting of ice, sherbets, and fancy wafers. Burleigh Johnson was caterer and was assisted by Messrs. William Locke and Orle Varrell.

After an intermission of thirty minutes, dancing was resumed and enjoyed until midnight.

All those present unanimously gave voice to the fact that this was "some dance."

The following are some of the costumes of the masqueraders: Charles Parsons as Uncle Sam; Gay Caswell as Dusty Rhodes; Merton Drake, chicken inspector; Wallace Rand, Simon Goldstein; Burleigh Johnson, Bartos Snowball; Alvah Caswell, Irishman; Ralph Berry, Tony Ruggles, the tramp; Horace Berry, Loyal Knight of the road; William Locke, Broadway sport; Everett Seavey, Eldred Marshall and Ervin Seavey, clowns; James Brown, farmer; Chester Drake, clown; Donald Malayan, duke of 1920; Charles Green, Christopher Columbus; Harry Green, French Canadian; Harry Odorine, old veteran; Orle Varrell, Dutchman; George Jones, Brazilian; Wallace Garrett, life saver; Orle Drake, westerner; Maurice Smart, Chinaman; Mrs. Chester Drake, smart; Mrs. Eldred Marshall, Aunt Dinah; Miss Goss, Little Red Riding Hood; Miss Bertha Miller, Miss Myrtle Caswell, old fashioned girls; Misses Lucy Marden, Ethel Rand, barren girls; Lona Walker, Japanese girl; Louise Rand, flower girl; Mrs. Wallace Garrett, gypsy; Dorothy Berry, tambourine girl; Mrs. Joseph Seavey, dairy maid; Miss Durnborn, apple vender; Alice Squire, kitchen maid; Frances Squire, peasant girl; Marian Mason, kitchen maid; Miss Corners, winsome maid; Emma Smart, 17th Century maiden.

PRETTY BETROTHAL CUSTOMS

There are many curious betrothal customs in Germany that are found no place else in the world. Many of them are pretty. All of them are odd.

As soon as a German girl is betrothed she is addressed as bride, by her fiancé. The betrothal is a more serious affair than in America and is not so easily broken. The girl is called bride, until the wedding, when she assumes the title of wife.

Immediately upon the betrothal the lovers exchange rings, which, is the course of true love runs smooth, are to be worn ever afterwards.

The woman wears her betrothal ring on the third finger of her left hand until she is married and then it is transferred to the third finger of her right hand.

The man continues to wear his ring just as the wife wore hers when she was a bride. There is no chance to lose it as if he were a single man. One can tell at a glance if he has achieved matrimony and German girls believe this is the safest way as it keeps other girls from flirting with their fiancé or husband. The wearing of the wedding ring by the German men is said to have made the divorce percentage small.—Chicago Tribune.

CURRENT OPINION

AMERICA NEEDS MANY MORE SKILLED WORKERS.

The American architect is handicapped almost fatally by the lack of good artificers to work out the detail.

Apart from the industrial arts in their relation to architecture, their importance in this country, where art manufactures or art products are so enormously in demand, is too obvious to need demonstration.

Nearly all our expert labor in the artistic trades is imported from Europe. We pay large wages to foreign workmen, but refuse to educate our own people so that this financial benefit may accrue to them.

In other words, our prosperity results in benefiting the alien, and we allow our citizens to degenerate, furnishing no new employment for the rising generation, but fitting it only to those limited callings which already are overstocked and in which it can command but a minimum wage.—Ralph Adams Cram, Architect, of New York.

CONVERTS FOR THE MORMON FAITH

Calgary, Alberta, Dec. 4.—With the object of winning converts to their faith the Mormon authorities of Alberta, who make their headquarters at Cardston, south of this city, will conduct an educational moving picture campaign all over the Dominion of Canada. The object in using the pictures is to show in a vivid way the various stages through which Mormonism has passed.

The picture story will begin with the supposed finding of the golden plates of the Book of Mormon by Joseph Smith in New York State, including the visit of the angel to him as he was praying. Other matters of historical interest will be the forced exodus from Missouri, the killing of Joseph and Hyram Smith by the mob at Nauvoo, Ill., the long journey of the Mormons to the Rockies and scenes connected with the settlement of the Utah territory.

All the chiefs of the church, from time to time, will be represented by living actors and President Joseph Smith and his chief councillors will appear in person. Most of the scenes will be set in the mountains near Salt Lake City and a call has been sent out for such prairie schooners and relics of the old days as have been preserved by the descendants of the early pioneers. Fifty trained actors will be employed to impersonate the dead leaders of the church and the pictures will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000. They will be shown on screens throughout Canada and in European countries where the church is conducting a vigorous propaganda.

PRES. FAIRCHILD WANTED IN IDAHO.

H. Harland of Fayette, Idaho, master of the Idaho state grange, a member of the state board of education and a member of the board of regents of the Idaho state university, wants a New Hampshire man to assume the presidency and direction of the latter institution.

He said: "One of my aims in coming to New Hampshire to attend the sessions of the National grange was to see if anything can be done toward securing Prof. Edward T. Fairchild at present the head of the New Hampshire State Agricultural college to go to Idaho and take charge of our state college. It seems to me that he is just the man we want, and the man who would make of our state university an institution to be proud of."

The best proof. Read it:

George S. Chandler, 420 Pleasant St., Portsmouth, N. H., says: "I do a great deal of walking in my work and in this way my kidneys became weakened, causing me much suffering. About three years ago I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills and began using them. They cured me and I have had little trouble since. Sometimes when I overwork or do any heavy lifting, I notice lameness in my back, but on such occasions, a few doses of Doan's Kidney Pills bring relief. I have recommended this excellent remedy to many of my friends and in every instance where it has been tried, benefit has followed. Doan's Kidney Pills can be procured at Philbrick's Drug Store and should be given a thorough trial by every kidney sufferer."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

CREW ABANDONS SCHOONER AT SEA

Mystery of Missing Vessel Is Solved by Wireless Message.

San Francisco, Dec. 3.—The missing schooner Alvarado, which cleared from the Columbia river on April 1 for Antofagasta, Chile, was abandoned at sea June 13 and the crew of 11 men made their way to Eastern Island. This was the gist of a wireless message from the steamer Moama received here today.

The island is a peak of rock belonging to Chile and about 2300 miles west of that country. It is the easternmost of the Polynesian group, far from trade routes, with an area of about 50 miles and scantily inhabited. Some of the castaways decided to risk another voyage in open boats.

Leaving behind his two mates, the ship's cook and five sailors, N. Benson, the captain and three volunteers again put out and after sailing for 28 days reached Papeete in the Society Islands on Nov. 5. A rescue party was sent for those left behind.

PORTSMOUTH THEATRE PROGRAMME

For Wednesday and Thursday
The Death Weight—Essanay Drama
In two parts.

Two shiftless nephews, chagrined at the accidental discovery that their uncle's ward is to be his sole heir. Interrupted by her lover in a struggle with the old man, they plan to kill him; so that his rescuer will get the blame. A fine photoplay of Chicago's underworld.

The Merry Maids & Stuart—Singing
Nora's Boarders—Edison Comedy

Beautiful Nora plays havoc with the hearts of her boarders. This farce is clever, brisk, amusing, and has been well handed.

Act—The Zerkas. Head and Hand balancers.

A Miracle of Love—Lubin Drama
Edwin Carey and Annie Hawley have the leads in this picture. She thinks she is in bad health and imposes upon everybody until the physician discovers that there is nothing the matter with her.

Movin' Picturers—Selling Comedy.
The ready response of youth to imitate its elders in everything naturally leads to an effort at duplicating the mighty magic of moving pictures. This makes a jolly, lively, and wholesome comedy.

Matinee 2.15, Evening 7.00. Saturday Evening 6.45.

POMONA GRANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

George Merrill of Hampton Falls Heads East Rockingham Organization.

The regular meeting of the East Rockingham Pomona Grange was held at Exeter on Wednesday with the Gilman Grange, and the following officers were elected: Master, George F. Merrill, Hampton Falls; overseer, William Evans, East Kingston; lecturer, Mrs. Mary H. Miffin, Exeter; steward, Benjamin Pray, Stratham; assistant steward, Augustus W. Neal, Newfields; chaplain, Mrs. Evelyn Mack, Hampton; treasurer, Frank Brown, Hampton; secretary, Miss Annie M. Perkins, Seabrook; gate keeper, Herbert M. Prescott, Kensington; Ceres, Mrs. Hannah Merrill, Hampton Falls; Pomona, Mrs. Edith Philbrick, Newmarket; Flora, Mrs. Ethel Pray, Stratham; lady assistant steward, Mrs. Lucie E. L. Peters, Exeter; pianist, Mrs. Mary White, Kingston.

The public sessions in the afternoon consisted of an address by Rev. Clarence LaRue of Northampton, vocal solos by Robert S. Bingham of Phillips Exeter academy, violin solos by W. D. Stevens of the academy, an essay by Miss Fyrik of Newington, and an original poem by Steward E. Rowe of Exeter.

Yesterday was an anniversary meeting of the East Rockingham Pomona Grange was organized with Gilman Grange. A turkey dinner was served by Gilman Grange at noon.

CHRISTMAS SALE AND ENTERTAINMENT

The annual Christmas sale of the Inasmuch Circle, King's Daughters, of the North church, to extend over two days, was held on Wednesday at the chapel on Middle street, and there was a large attendance and the sale was most successful. The chapel was prettily decorated, the color scheme being blue and green.

Mrs. Charles W. Gray was the chairman of the decorating committee and was assisted by Mrs. Thomas Flanagan.

The entire chapel and ice cream parlor was very effectively arranged with spruce boughs and red berries, which inspired the real Christmas spirit.

The entertainment consisted of the farce "A Borrowed Luncheon," which was well presented.

The following was the cast of characters:

Mrs. Bancroft, with social aspirations Mrs. Oscar Alchel

Mrs. McDougall, her wealthy friend Mrs. Arthur G. Brewster

Mrs. Dixon, from Mrs. Bancroft's former home Miss Frances Hanscom

Marion, Mrs. Dixon's daughter, Mrs. Frank Butler

Norah, Mrs. McDougall's maid Mrs. Robert Boyd

The following is the synopsis of the laughable little comedy:

Mrs. Dixon and her daughter are traveling in the town in which her former neighbor, Mrs. Bancroft has lived since her marriage. Mrs. Bancroft is too proud to receive them in her home which is only a flat, so tells her wealthy neighbor, Mrs. McDougall, that her house is in the hands of the paper-hangers, whereupon Mrs. McDougall offers her house in which to receive her friends, while she is away at a social function. The guests arrive, and are received by Mrs. Bancroft, who represents the house as her own. Various complications constantly arise such as questions concerning the portraits, etc., of which she is of course ignorant. Finally the guests depart, but find that Marion has lost a valuable pin, which they come back to look for, and accuse the servant, Norah, of stealing. In the midst of Norah's distress, her mistress, Mrs. McDougall returns home and the deception is unmasked.

The presentation was excellent and the players deserve much credit for their clever impersonations.

Mrs. James R. Connell was the coach and deserves much credit for her work.

The stage was handsomely furnished by Margeson Brothers.

There was a sale of fancy articles, home cooking, candy etc.

The committees were:

Bag table, Mrs. Richard E. Hannaford, chairman; Mrs. C. A. Hazlett, Mrs. J. N. Pringle, and Mrs. Ernest Martin.

Apron table, Mrs. J. P. Shannon, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Albert Corbett, Mrs. Howard Dodge, Mrs. Joseph Holmes, Mrs. Geo. Bailey.

Center table, Mrs. G. W. Hayford, chairman; Mrs. A. J. Lunge, Mrs. J. G. Parsons, Mrs. Charles W. Gray, Miss Clyde Spinner, Mrs. R. J. Boyd.

Mrs. E. M. Fisher, Mrs. Geo. H. Joy, Miss Susie Shackley, Mrs. Norman H. Beane and Mrs. Ira St. Clair.

Cooked food, Mrs. William H. Anderson, chairman; Mrs. Henry H. Dutton, Mrs. James L. Parker, Miss Josie Norris.

Candy table, Mrs. John Gilman, chairman; Mrs. Harry E. Philbrook, Mrs. John G. Sweetser, and Mrs. Morgan Dada.

The ice cream parlor was attractively arranged with ice cream tables, and had a large patronage throughout the evening.

Mrs. Andrew O. Caswell was the chairman of this committee, assisted by Mrs. Henry Payne.

The waitresses were Mrs. Noel Campbell, Mrs. Elias Emery, and Mrs. Everett McNabb.

Miss Grace Conner was the chairman of the general committee.

The sale will be continued this evening and supper will be served at six o'clock and in the evening an entertainment given.

"CASCARETS" RELIEVE SICK, SOUR STOMACH

Move Acids, Gases and Clogged-Up
Waste from Stomach, Liver,
Bowel—Cure Indigestion

Get a ten cent box now.

That awful sourness belching of acid and foul gases; that pain in the pit of the stomach, the heartburn, nervousness, nausea, bloating after eating, dizziness and sick headache, indicating a disordered stomach which cannot be regulated until you remove the cause. It isn't your stomach's fault. Your stomach is as good as any.

Try Cascarets; they immediately cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels. Then your stomach trouble is ended. A Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning—a 10 cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular for months. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing too.

For regular motion of the bowels; easy, natural movements, relief of constipation, try Doan's Regulators. 25c at all stores.

RAILROAD NOTES

Jesse N. Wentworth, a former track supervisor for the Boston & Maine is now in charge of the state highway work in Kittery and York.

Christmas trees are numerous in the freight shipments from the East.

The Third Avenue railroad will put in operation on January 1 a group insurance plan for its men at a yearly cost of $5,000. The men pay a yearly premium of $1 and the company $4 per $1000 of insurance.

The Pennsylvania railroad has indefinitely suspended between 400 and 500 men in its shops at Altoona, the hours of work being reduced in two of its plants. Employees of the machine shops, who have formerly worked 55 hours a week, will go on forty hours for days of ten hours each. About 5000 men are affected.

In the car shops employing 3000 men the same hours will be in vogue. Railroads of Germany, considered the most successful under government ownership, are having held before the men an example, the initiative of privately operated roads of the United States in co-operation with farmers for the betterment of agricultural conditions. The German railroad Union publication, after praising development work being done in this country, urges German officials to make a closer study of American methods with a view to improving agriculture in their own territory.

Nightmare.
Nightmare is a peculiar form of bad dream considered worthy of special name, being usually accompanied by a sense of extreme uneasiness or discomfort, like a weight on the chest or stomach, with imagined impossibility of motion or speech and other distressing feelings. It is due to disturbed circulation in the chest or in the brain, which, in turn, is due to imprudent eating of late or hearty suppers.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulators relieved and strengthened the bowels so that they have been regular ever since."—K. Davis, Grocer, Sulphur Springs, Texas.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE RECEIVED IN MEXICO

Papers Still Have Impression That Wilson is Afraid--Rebels Rapidly Gaining Control.

Mexico City, Dec. 3.—The message delivered by President Wilson to Congress at Washington yesterday, briefly outlined but prominently displayed by all the Spanish morning newspapers. The only paper printed in English, however, buried it on an inside page. In commenting on the message, the Independent, which is controlled by the Government, says: "The man at the White House has dared to affirm, against the truth universally conceded, that Provisional President Huerta is being sympathetic every day and that his fall is to be expected. It is hardly believable that President Wilson would have the temerity to assert such a thing, thereby giving testimony of his bad faith toward things Mexican."

"The impudent says: 'From a good source, it is known that some of the foreign ministers accredited to Washington criticize the message severely, the establishment of peace and good government in Mexico if Provisional President Huerta, whose vigorous efforts at the pacification of the country are well known, should leave the presidency.'"

"El Pais, the most independent of the Mexican newspapers, says: 'President Wilson's words are so injurious and depressing and at the same time the charges he makes against the Mexican President are so untrue that it is preferable to pass them by in silence, in order not to awaken anti-American sentiment in Mexico.'"

Only vague impressions of the actual contents of the message were conveyed by the scraps published in the newspapers, but it seemed to be generally concluded that President Wilson intended to keep his hands off and to leave Provisional President Huerta to the mercy of his enemies. To the Administration and its adherents this course was sold today to the highly acceptable, and they declared that since the hope of recognition was a game, all they desired was to be let alone. The fact that no recognition was given to the rebels seemed to be a source of satisfaction and relief to them.

CHANGE IN WARSHIPS

German Cruiser Dresden, to Replace the Bremen at Vera Cruz, is Being Fitted Out at Kiel.

Berlin, Dec. 3.—The German cruiser Dresden is being fitted out at Kiel to run for Mexican waters at the end of December to replace the cruiser Bremen, which is to return to Germany. The Bremen is in urgent need of repairs. She was homeward bound, after several years on the American station, when the developments in Mex-co necessitated her return to Vera Cruz.

The new cruiser Karlsruhe, which has been assigned to the American station, will not be ready to relieve the Dresden before next spring.

AMERICANS WILL NOT ARM

Mexicans Would Regard Such Action as Hostile—All Europeans in Capital Have Taken Precautions.

Mexico City, Dec. 3.—The rear admiral in command of the British cruisers in Mexican waters, Sir Christopher Cradock, was entertained at dinner last evening by the German Minister in Mexico, Admiral Paul von Hintze. Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge d'affaires, also was a guest.

The seaport city of Tampico was today officially declared the temporary capital of the State of Tamaulipas. Gen. Antonio Rabago, the military Governor, who was forced to abandon Ciudad Victoria and who was erroneously reported to have committed suicide, has gone to Tampico, under orders from the Federal Government to reestablish his government of the state in the temporary capital.

The War Department announced today that Gen. Arzobispo and other Federal officers who fled from Ciudad Victoria to Tercero, in the state of San Luis Potosi, had been ordered to reorganize their forces and march again upon Victoria. This task had been entrusted at first to Gen. Esteban Navarro, who is now in Monterey, in which place he retreated after his failure to relieve the hard-pressed garrison of Victoria.

As though in reply to the statement made in Paris by Gen. Porfirio Diaz, there appeared in today's orders of the day, issued by the War Department, the announcement that Gen. Porfirio Diaz had been transferred from the retired list to the active list on Sept. 20.

Difficult to Handle Trains

On account of the nature of the organization of the equipment of the long distances and of the broken topography of the country the Federal Government will find it difficult to handle its various military expeditions without trains, now that the railroads have been practically deprived of all fuel by the oil-producing companies.

On some of the divisions of the rail road system coal may be used, and sufficient supplies of that fuel are in existence to operate the trains for some time, but at the best, it is probable, unless unforeseen circumstances arise that traffic other than military trains will be suspended soon. Reliable news about the military operations in various parts of the republic is very meagre in the Federal capital, and what little there is does not favor the Government.

Telegraphic communication along the line of the National railroad has been reestablished, but it is understood this has been done with the consent of the rebels, as they are known to dominate the line to the south of Matamoros and to within 75 miles of San Luis Potosi.

A consular report received here from San Luis reveals the fact that the residents of that city are kept in ignorance of the military operations in progress in the surrounding country on account of the interrupted telegraphic communications.

Extraordinary methods continue to be resorted to in order to secure recruits for the Federal Army. The servant girls of the Federal Capital display marked caution when they appear on the streets, as they are aware that scores of their fellow servants have been drafted into the army as soldiers.

One trick utilized by the recruiting officers tricked the Federal Army 63 conscripts in a single batch. The bills posted outside a moving picture show announced that the exhibition was "for men only." The little room was crowded some time before the performance began.

A series of ordinary pictures was thrown on the screen, the first of them being one of "The Virgin of Guadalupe," the patron saint of Mexico. The crowd of men greeted this good-naturedly, but when it was followed by a picture of "The Lord's Supper" and this was succeeded by "The Crucifixion," the men, who had looked for a different kind of entertainment started an uproar which resulted in a riot by the police, who marched off the majority of the men to the barracks, where they were at once placed in the ranks of the army.

Americans Not Preparing for Defense

Preparations for defense in case of local disturbances are being continued by the various foreign colonies other than the American in the Federal capital. The leaders of the American colony are inclined to believe that any move in that direction taken by them would be likely to be misconstrued by the Mexican Government and it is understood that in order to avoid being regarded as organized combatants the Americans, in case of necessity, will take refuge beneath the protection of the various European flags.

H. S. Kidder, general traveling sales agent for the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, was released on a bond of $2500 at San Luis Potosi yesterday, after submitting to a trial by the Federal authorities on a charge of sedition. Apparently the only evidence against Mr. Kidder was that while he was riding on the railroad he had talked in general terms with the employees on the subject of the prevailing conditions and had frequently looked through the field glasses at the landscape.

He was arrested on Nov. 27 on suspicion of complicity in the recent dynamite outrages on the railroad. Kidder was formerly a locomotive engineer and had lived in Mexico for many years. He bears a good reputation. The American consul at San Luis Potosi was present at the trial.

OBJECT LESSON MISSED FIRE

Uncle's Idea of Teaching His Country Nephew Caution Proved Something of a Failure.

A youth from the country was paying his first visit to New York, and, accompanied by his uncle, a leading banker, went to the theater, says the Pathfinder. While waiting in the lobby before the performance the country boy hung back his coat and with hands in his pockets displayed a heavy gold watch-chain. The uncle observed the act and resolved to teach him a lesson.

While the young man's attention was diverted the uncle slipped the watch and chain from his vest, and they entered the theater.

"What time is it?" he asked when they were seated.

The boy felt for his time-piece and found it was gone. Allowing him to make a thorough search of it, the uncle told him he had taken it and read him a sharp lecture. "You are not in the country now, you know, where you can display valuables with impunity. You should be more careful. Let this be a lesson to you."

So saying he slipped his hand into his overcoat pocket where he had put the watch. To his utter dismay he found it was gone. And when he looked to see if his own was safe he found that also had taken wings.

Modern Surgery.

Dr. A. L. Sorel of New York, who is in London for the medical congress, gave details of a new marvel in surgery he is studying; nothing less than the grafting of new limbs to replace those lost. The victim of an amputation may have the leg of a dead man or woman fixed upon him by surgeons, who will join the nerves and veins, making the dead limb re-live and begin a new life with its new owner.

Doctor Sorel has been long experimenting on animals. "I took the leg from a dead white dog," he said, "and grafted it on a yellow dog, whose leg had been removed. The yellow dog, with one white leg, now trots about thoroughly well. I have now three patients awaiting my return, to whom I hope to give new limbs taken from the bodies of persons accidentally killed."

NEW FLAG OF IRELAND

Golden Sunburst on a Blue Ground Likely to Be Chosen, Although Others Have Been Suggested.

What flag shall Ireland fly? This is a question that is again being discussed as the time draws nearer for the final passage of the Home Rule bill.

Probably no country has had more National flags than Ireland, so that of old-time flags the range of choice is by no means restricted. The most ancient, without doubt, is the "Spear and Serpent," said in commemoration the curing by St. Patrick of a monster of Mithras, who had been bitten by a snake. Then there is the golden sunburst upon a blue ground, emblem of Flann Mac Cumhaill's Peninsula (Mithras). Since was always Ireland's National color until 1798, when the United Irishmen, to signify the blending of North and South, evolved a National color of the blue formed by the amalgamation of blue and orange, namely, green.

Another flag is that which Cromwell's soldiers are reputed to have seen when fighting the Kernes, a red cross upon a golden ground. Opinions as to whether such was ever a National emblem or not are divided, many people believing it to have been the arms of an insurgent commander.

The three golden crowns upon a blue ground is another emblem which has not been overlooked. The design appears today in the arms of Munster, and the three crowns are said to typify the triple kingdoms of Desmond, Thomond and Ormond. Anyway, this flag was the emblem of Ireland from 1170 until 1547, when Henry VIII of England substituted the harp for the three crowns, the reason being that Henry was anxious that the three crowns should not be confused with the triple crown of the Pope, with whom, at that juncture, Henry was not upon the best of terms.

"Thus it comes about that the harp, which is deemed as typically Irish, was imposed upon Ireland by an English King; but had not the United Irishmen, although they decried the harp in 1798, adopted it as their emblem, and Grattan's Parliament recognized the harp, although they did not the green ground, it is hardly likely that the average Irishman today would regard it as other than an upstart burgeo."

Still another National device to be considered is the "Lamh Dearg Bhrinn," the Red Hand of Ireland, which, upon a white ground, was borne by Shane and Hugh O'Neill's armies that defeated Queen Elizabeth's generalists. "The early hours of the 19th century saw Ireland afflicted with the St. Patrick's cross, a red saltire upon a white ground. What St. Patrick had to do with it nobody can say, but some emblem or the other had got to be incorporated in the British flag upon the passing of the act of union, and so the heralds did the best. Wherever they got the red saltire from is not known, but there is reason to believe that it was borrowed from the arms of Trinity College, Dublin, which body had in turn borrowed it from the Fitzgerald family.

In all probability Ireland will adopt the sunburst upon a blue ground, the chief reasons being its antiquity, its distinctly Irish origin and its symbolism of Ireland rising to take her proper place among the Nations.

But, come what may, the ground of the new flag is going to be blue. The Sinn Feiners are resolved upon that, and that the flag's material shall not be silk or cotton, but good Irish linen.—London correspondence in New York Sun.

PREFERENTIAL VOTING PLAN.

In seven American cities, scattered from Portland, Ore., to Cleveland, Ohio, ranging in population from 8000 to 60,000, you can vote for a dozen candidates for one office in one election and still not be in any danger of being led away to jail on the charge of repeating.

This is one of the distinguishing features of the preferential system of voting which was inaugurated less than five years ago in the United States in the little city of Grand Junction, Colorado, and whose adoption by the city of Cleveland, Ohio on July 1, formally presented the plan to the people of the east.

When seven widely scattered American cities determine upon a new and radically revolutionary change in their system of election the event is worthy of some attention from students of politics. The rapid growth of this method of election has been one of the minor yet most significant events in recent municipal history. It seems to demonstrate that in the cities, at least, the American voter has come to the conclusion that the plurality system of election with its unvarying tendency toward minority control, is essentially wrong, and that the plan of the municipal direct primary is a needless and improper burden on both the people and the candidates.

Indeed, the trend away from the direct primary and towards the more simple, inexpensive and compact method of nomination and election is

Coffee Drinking

Coffee isn't a food. Anything not a food which is taken into the system makes the eliminative processes work overtime to throw it off. Often the unprofitable thing, when taken regularly, accumulates faster than it can be eliminated, and becomes a destroyer.

Besides, coffee contains caffeine, a subtle, poisonous drug—about 2 1/2 grains to the cup. It is well known that caffeine frequently causes heart trouble, nervousness, sleeplessness and biliousness—serious handicaps to progress and comfort.

If something is hindering your efforts, try the simple test of leaving off coffee ten days and using Postum.

If after a few days you begin to feel better—sleep well, nerves steady up and brain gets clear, you will know how to avoid that kind of trouble.

Postum, made only of prime wheat and a small percent of New Orleans molasses, is a pure food-drink—wholesome, nourishing and delicious. It is absolutely free from caffeine or any other drug.

Postum now comes in two forms.

Regular Postum—must be well boiled to bring out its delightful flavour and food value.

Instant Postum—(the new form) is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful stirred in a cup of hot water makes a delicious beverage instantly. Add sugar and cream to taste.

GOVERNMENT WILL INSIST ON COMPLETE SEPARATION

Washington, Dec. 3.—Conferees today between Atty. Gen. McInerney and Chairman Elliott of the New Haven board developed a situation which made both officials confident that a basis of dissolution which would restore competition in New England transportation and meet the Government's demands would be reached some time in the near future without a court fight.

Although all the parties to the conference, which lasted several hours, mutually agreed not to disclose what went on, it was understood that Atty. Gen. McInerney hopes for a settlement of the problem, which he regards as one of the most intricate which has yet come before him, some time during the winter. Whatever is to be done is to be accomplished without an unnecessary hardship to the railroad or the stockholders.

Further conferences will develop the situation as it proceeds. The Government has been insisting upon the dissolution of the Boston & Maine merger and a correction of practically all the conditions which were assailed in the recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission after its investigation of the financial affairs of the New Haven.

COOKING UNDER DIFFICULTY

Play of Campers Nowadays Was Inconvenient Reality for Housekeepers in Early Times.

One of the ways in which men of science have got information about the way that people lived in England thousands of years ago, is by finding and examining their cooking places. Sometimes they find these places accidentally, but often a low mound by a spring, or a discolored patch in a plowed field, will catch the eye of the experienced relic hunter.

If he digs down a few inches or feet he will uncover a circle or layer of stones that show the marks of fire usually there will be bits of charcoal among them, for charcoal is one of the most indestructible of substances.

Here was the cooking place, the home hearth of a family of small, dark skinned wild men and women, who lived there thousands of years ago, long before the Phenicians visited Britain to gather grain of tin from the river beds at Cornwall. They had no tools or weapons of metal, for they did not know how to smelt ores of iron or copper, much less how to forge these metals into spears or knives or spears.

They made their implements and tools of wood or stone, bone or shell; they caught their game and fish in pitfalls or by nets and traps, and they defended themselves with blunt-pointed spears. They lived in caves or under the shelter of ledges of rock, or they built brush huts beside the streams, and springs on whose banks we find

IN THE OLD PASTURE

Old blades dying together sweetening the purple air,
Wilding in wind or weather of half a hundred years,
A rose whose blooms have sadly forgotten their once were fair,
While a bird song pushing gladly is the only sound one hears.

The weed grows rank in the hollow—
ah, many a bitter leaf!
The seasons follow and follow with idle suns and snows;
And the lonely place is haunted by shades of an ancient grief,
And something of sorrow is chaunted on every breeze that blows.

Here on the stone slabs slinking in tangles of eager brows,
Bluehead and wife to my thinking, send their dreams afar,
Or folded close in the gloaming, it may be lover and lass
Made them an end of mourning, and kissed beneath the evening star.

Here tremors of love and longing, and the laughter close on tears,
Sweet hopes and strange ones, thronging, and the sacrament of birth,
Here children with one another played, guarded by tender fears,
To her high song the mother the sweetest song of earth.

AEROPLANE IN BATTLE

Some Difficulties Apparently Impossible to Overcome

Those who regard the aeroplanes as invaluable in warfare, far beyond its possibilities, are led to their conclusions by two errors; first, they do not differentiate between the wonder of the invention, per se, and the limitation of its application. Second, that this conquest of the heavens has nothing to do with the subjugation of man. It has not invented into him new faculties; and yet it is man and not machines we have to deal with. While it has given new means of military observation, it does not follow that these observations will be more intelligible nor his deductions more reliable nor his judgment and genius his valor and endurance superior to what it had been before.

The unreliable and diverse opinions of scouts on things that they have been in actual contact with is a well-known military phenomenon, and one that is perfectly natural, since there are no two men whose perceptive faculties are identical. A good scout is one of the rarest elements in an army for he is good only because he has lived in an environment and followed a vocation that develops the faculties of observation and renders them accurate. An aerial scout, on the other hand, rarely shoots forward out of a vocation that has nothing to do with those elements that would give reasonability to his reports even though he were inspecting, on the ground itself, all things from an entirely different point of view, and there is but one single thing that he could make a report on that would be worthy of consideration, and that is the actual movement of a body of troops on an open terrace. But his report as to the strength, its destination or rate of movement, could be accepted by no commander and practically all the rest of his information would be erroneous.

Peering down from a great height it would be impossible for him to determine the depth of stream, their bottom or their currents or the thickness of ice. He could not ascertain the angle or height of declivities. Looking down from the perpendicular upon these he could have no means of determining whether or not they belonged to a deep gorge or a shallow ravine. He could not ascertain the location of fords and whether in ad-

EDUCATION NOTES

Twelve American universities have endowment funds of over $5,000,000. Kaul, Hawaiian Islands, has 27 open-air schoolrooms in regular use. Three Chinamen are among those studying forestry at the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse, N. Y.

A "social service bulletin" is published by the Washington, D. C., public library, for the purpose of making known to social workers the latest information in their field.

There were 5 schools and pupils in the Brooklyn kindergartens organized by Supt. Wm. H. Maxwell 15 years ago; now there are 40,000 children in the kindergartens of Greater New York.

The division of education of Harvard University and the city of Newton, Mass., maintain a joint fellowship for research in education. The holder of the fellowship is a member of the faculty both at Newton and at Harvard. He conducts investigations and experiments in the Newton schools with the active cooperation of the Newton teachers and the results are published by the university.

The Board of Education of New York city has just secured an appropriation of $75,000 with which to operate during the coming year after school play centers in 163 of its school buildings. Each of these play centers will accommodate from 250 to 350 school children. The school yard and the school gymnasium will be used for this purpose, and will remain open from 2.30 to 5.30 p. m. The expense consists of $2.50 for the director of the center and $1.00 per session for extra janitor service, making a total of $3.50 for an afternoon center accommodating approximately 300 children, or about 1-4 cents per child.

MRS. PANKHURST ARRESTED ON ARRIVAL HOME

Plymouth, Eng., Dec. 3.—Preparations are understood to have been made for the arrest of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, on her arrival here from the United States on board the Maestri tonight. A force of suffragettes under the command of "Gen." Mrs. Flora Drummond will, it is said, be on the spot ready to fight for their leader's freedom.

The chief constable at Plymouth, who confirms the report that Mrs. Pankhurst is to be arrested, is preparing an adequate force so as to be in readiness to deal with any attempt at rescue which may be made by the militant suffragettes.

BOSTON OPERA COMPANY

The Boston Opera Company will begin the third week of the season with the first performance this winter of Puccini's ever popular opera "Madam Butterfly," on Monday, Dec. 8th. The title role will be sung by the charming Lucinda Bart, who will be new to the part here. She so firmly established herself by her performances of Mimi and Antonio last year that she will be doubly welcome.

The role of Suzuki will be sung by Joska Swartz-Morse; the Pinkerton will be Leon Laidley; and Marie Ancona will be a new Sharpless. Elsewhere in the cast will be Miss Irene and M. M. Giaccone and Non-Marior.

On Wednesday evening will occur the second performance of Fevriere's "Mamma Yanna," which will probably be the last until the latter part of the season. The cast will be the same that took part in the premiere on Friday night, including Mary Gardel, Lucien Muratore, Yvonne Marconis, and Paolo Laidley.

Friday night will be notable for the season's premiere of Verdi's "Aida," presented by an exceptionally brilliant cast. The title role will be sung by Elizabeth Amaden, and Amperio will be taken by Margherita D'Alvarez, the remarkable new contralto, whose voice made prominent even the small part that she sang on the opening night. For the majority of the audience, however, the event of the evening will be the return of Florentino Constantino, after an absence of nearly two years. He will sing Radames on Friday night, and is sure to be splendidly received. Paolo Laidley will sing Ramfis, and Amperio will fall to Mario Ancona. Michela Samperi will sing the King, Myra Sharlow a priestess, and Lorenzo Fuses a messenger.

The Saturday afternoon performance will likewise be a notable one, when "Thick" will be presented for the first time this season. Mary Gardel will appear in the same part, which is one of the most famous of her roles. The Alcindori will be Henry Ranges, the new French baritone, who will make his debut in this part. The Niche will be Vincenzo Tanlongo, the young Italian tenor who has already so much pleased the Saturday night and Sunday concert audiences. Elsewhere in the cast will be Misses Renshaw, Italian and Swartz-Morse, and Scouter-White; and M. M. Wronski and Garud. Mr. Strong will be in the conductor's seat.

On Saturday night, "The Barber of Seville" will be presented. The Rossini will be Irene Jonard, a charming young American singer, who will make her debut. The Figaro will be Rodolfo Fornari; Luigi Tavenchia will sing Bartolo, and others in the cast will be Alfredo Rumbold, Jose Marconis, Ernesto Giaccone, Attilio Pulcinella, and Elvira Leveroni. The conductor will be Arnaldo Schiavoni.

INVENTS BOMB WHICH PUTS FOES TO SLEEP

Woman in Germany Has New Weapon of Offense in Warfare—Tested by Saxin Government.

Dresden, Saxony, Dec. 3.—The Saxony War Ministry has been testing a powder, recently invented, which produces stupefaction. It is claimed that the gas from a single bomb has thrown several hundred men into a deep sleep lasting seven or eight hours. The inventor is a woman—Ida Hoshan, and the Prussian military authorities have asked her to go to Berlin to demonstrate the efficiency of her invention.

FREAK BIDS FOR SUBMARINES

Bids for four new submarines opened at the Navy Department yesterday, contained novel features. A Bridgeport, Conn., company offered to build two on a commission of ten per cent on the cost of labor and materials supplied by the Government, the company supplying plans, plant and patents. A New York concern submitted various bids—one of $1,500,000 for a monster submarine of 1810 tons, twice as large as any now in the service. There were no foreign bidders, although they had been invited. Owing to the complexity of the bidding it will not be possible to announce the successful bidder until the proposals have been analyzed.
